Foreword

The goals of a high school are numerous, and Park is certainly no exception. There is more to an education than just learning facts. Getting along with others, sharing responsibilities, and good sportsmanship are a few of the other functions of a high school education.

Parkites will carry with them the traditions of Park throughout their lives. All will carry with them memories; for some, orange and blue will always ring a bell; for others, the face of Joan of Arc will bring a smile. Park's customs will be remembered long after the facts are forgotten.

During our last summer vacation, our school changed its appearance. In September, teachers and students were greeted with the "new" Park. This included the face-lifted typing rooms boasting new desks, fluorescent lighted classrooms, (That old excuse of not being able to see your paper does not go here anymore!) and the halls brightly lighted with modern fixtures. Probably the most appreciated improvement of all is that of the installation of clocks — we had clocks, they just didn't work! (Another excuse disappeared from Parkites' lives; it can no longer be said that the exam wasn't finished because of not knowing the time.)

As Editor of the 1962 Kipikawi, it was my privilege to write this Foreword. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the staff of this past year and to commend them on their hard work. Speaking for the staff, I would also like to express profoundest thanks to our advisor, Mr. David Zehren, who gave us his time and talents.

Kipikawi Anniversary Dedication

This is the fiftieth year that one of Racine's High Schools yearbook's has born the name KIPIKAWI.

HERE'S HOW IT BEGAN:

The name "Kipikawi" was first given to Racine High School's yearbook in 1912. The 1912 graduates, in their last will and testament, wrote, "We give and bequeath to the world at large, and especially to the students of this school, KIPIKAWI, our class publication, to be for all time to come, an example and model of literary and artistic perfection." Thus, KIPIKAWI, the old Indian name for Racine, lives on as the permanent title for the annual.

THE LOST YEAR:

Interruption occured with the opening of the new Washington Park and William Horlick High Schools. The old Racine High School was closed and the KIPIKAWI tradition was temporarily ended. "With neither school able to claim sole right to the title, the 1928 edition of the annual closed the history of KIPIKAWI as the old Racine High School book. 1929 was the first year since 1912 that the KIPIKAWI was not published." That year, the annual for Washington Park High was published as the Senior Edition of the Beacon.

THE RETURN OF KIPIKAWI:

"Resumption took place when Horlick adopted the name of POLARIS for its yearbook: Park was able to request the rights to the title, KIPIKAWI." The request was granted, and the 1930 "Kipikawi" became solely a "Washington Park" publication.

25TH ANNIVERSARY: 1937

The 1937 staff published the twenty-fifth KIPIKAWI; it continued the cherished tradition of presenting a book of lasting memories to all Park High students. "They gave their annual to the world at large with the hope that it would be the beginning of another quarter century of service to the school."

50TH ANNIVERSARY: 1962

Now that the twenty-five years has passed, the 1962 staff finds entrusted to their care the celebration of the Golden Anniversary of our annual, the KIPIKAWI, and the continual striving of its presentation as " . . . an example and model of literary and artistic perfection." We proudly dedicate this 50th Anniversary Edition to those teachers, now at Park, who have for the past twenty-five years helped to establish and build the excellent reputation of Park High School in the community and state. We recognize and pay tribute to these ten teachers . . .

Mr. Guy Weaver

is best remembered by former students as the wrestling coach and typing teacher. He was cited several years ago for over 25 years of service as the coach. He became a teacher because his home town had a teacher's college. Since then he has taught in Minnesota, and Montana, and attended Whitewater, Minnesota, and Wisconsin Universities for post-graduate work. His most memorable years were those spent in the army, and the years that Park's wrestling teams took state honors; a memorable occasion was the receiving of his M.A. from Iowa. He summarizes Park's history by saying, "It went from foot to bicycle to the motor age." Mr. and Mrs. Weaver spend their summers quietly while he paints, hunts, and fishes.

Mr. Francis Rogers

is a familiar sight in the chemistry laboratory. He began his career in teaching to earn money to go on in school and liked working with young people so well that he continued. He has studied in Kirksville, Mo. (B.S.), Chicago, UCLA, USC, Marquette, and Wisconsin. His only pet peeve is, "When are we going to have a make-up test?" During summer vacations, Mr. Rodgers divides his time between a farm in Missouri and trips to California, where he hopes to retire. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have two grown children, John and Roberta, both married and graduates of Park.

Mr. Philip Krause

became a biology and chemistry teacher because of an interest in science and because several of his own teachers had made him realize the pleasure of working with students and fellow teachers. He received his B.A. at Wisconsin and his M.A. at Michigan. He also studied at Marquette and Minnesota Universities. He remembers many outstanding times at Park as coach of state champion basketball, cross-country, and golf teams' but, especially as coach of the basketball team that beat Horlick 97-83, still a Big-8 record for the highest team score and highest combined score. Mr. and Mrs. Krause have two children, Paul, a junior at Park, and Carolyn, aged 10, who says she would go nowhere else.

Mr. Leander Bervin

divides his time at Park between his physics classes, the Advanced Science Club, of which he is advisor, and his duties as Head of the Science Department. He went into teaching because it offered him a chance to work with two favorite subjects, children and science. His own two daughters are former graduates of Park, are now married, and have given Mr. and Mrs. Bervin eight grandchildren. He received his Ph.B. at Wisconsin, but he has also studied at Marquette, Case Institute of Technology, and at M.I.T. on the Westinghouse scholarship. The Bervins' have a summer cottage up north where he relaxes with his hobbies, music and photography.

Miss Elizabeth Walker

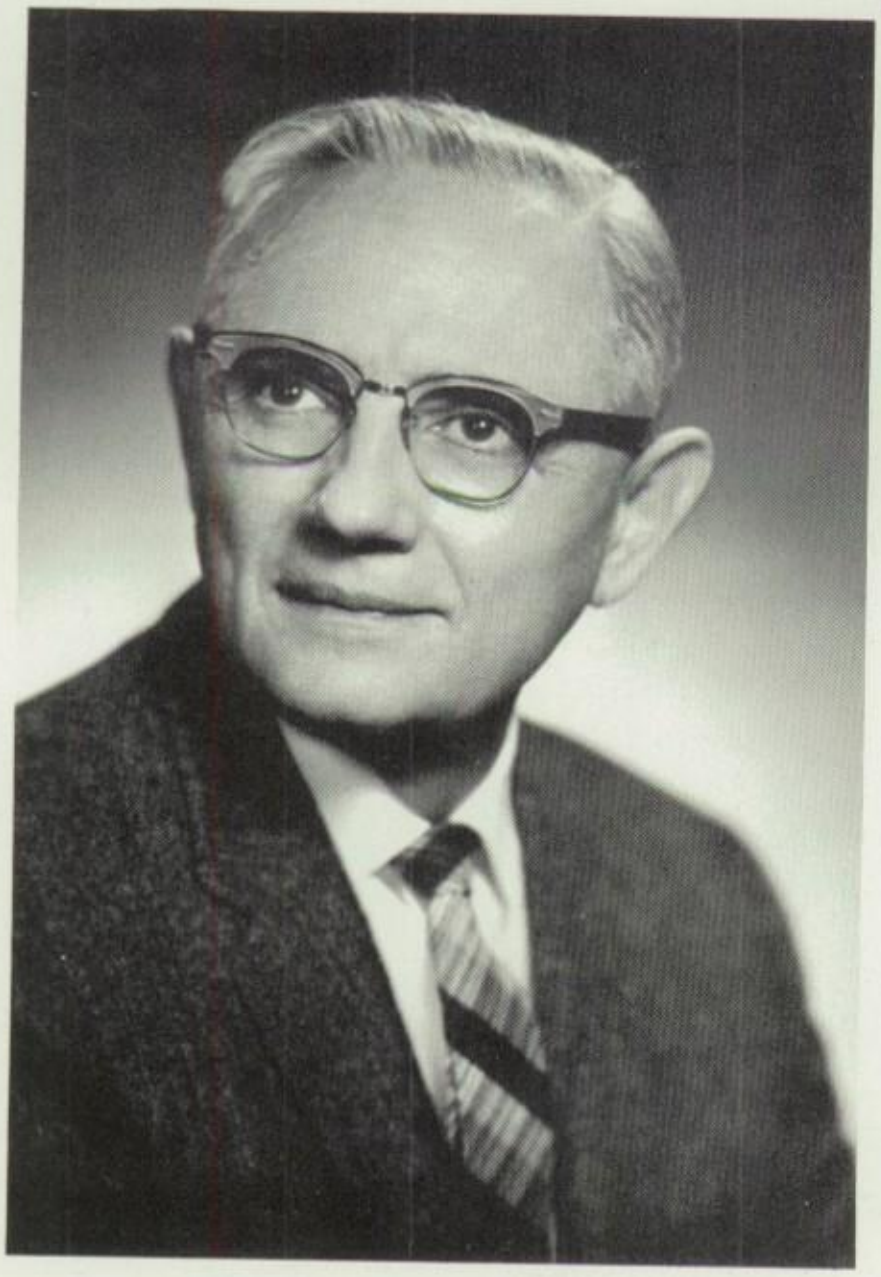
added new responsibilities to her regular English curriculum by becoming Acting Head of the English Department this year for Miss Williams. She says she sort of "fell into" teaching and attended Oberlin (B.A.) and Radcliffe (M.A.) before going to Oak Park, Horlick, and then Park. She has returned to summer sessions at Michigan, Wisconsin, Bread Loaf, and American colleges. Last year, Miss Walker became a part of the new team teaching program to coordinate history, math, and English. A former physical education director at the Toledo Y.W.C.A., she now spends her summers mowing the lawn, gardening, and traveling.

Mrs. Elizabeth Felten

enjoys helping her English students become aware of values and develop into fine adults. A graduate of Western College, she previously taught at Rochester, Indiana, where she was picked "The Outstanding Teacher in Indiana." Her prize was a trip to Philadelphia and Washington D.C., where she received her medal from the President at the White House. She returned to school as a student via summer sessions at Bread Loaf School of English, Cambridge, in England; Northwestern; Marquette; Bradley; and Wisconsin. She hopes to continue her traveling experience after she leaves Park and add to her memories of three summers abroad.

Miss Alta Laub

is Park's amicable French teacher. She studied at the School of Education at Northwestern because she liked to be with young adults and she liked the long summer vacations. She spends them gardening on her small farm west of Racine where she would like to retire. Miss Laub's first teaching job was in Knoxville, Tennessee, and from there she came to Park. Today she teaches advanced French classes and is the advisor to the French Club. Each year she helps her students plan a French party.



Mr. Raymond Hawker

finds his outstanding memories in the success of his former social studies students. He enjoys teaching and being with other teachers. He firmly believes that today's students are no different from when he was young, and that Park, "always an outstanding high school," has changed with the changing times. He has a B.S. in Education from Illinois, and an M.S. in Business Ad. from Washington University. He was appointed the Deputy County Treasurer in his home county in Illinois while still in college.

Mr. Charles Haumersen came to Park from the Racine Vocational School to teach electricity and electronics. He has a B.S. in Electrical Engineering from the Milwaukee Engineering School, and he has also studied at the University of Wisconsin. He says he's much too busy teaching and watching the progress of his students to have any hobbies. Mr. and Mrs. Haumersen have no post-retirement plans, but their seven children, all graduates of Park, will keep them busy with the thirteen grandchildren. As for pet peeves, Mr. Haumersen claims none, "If I had any, I wouldn't have been here this long."

Mr. Roger Tasker

Park's drafting teacher, and a member of Park's Internal Affairs Committee, says he went into teaching because he just enjoys teaching. He received his B.S. and M.A. at Stout, and has gone on to study at Plattville, Wisconsin, and Colorado. He feels students today need more help than before, but that crowded conditions make this inevitable. He spends his vacations at drafting or carpentry jobs. Mr. Tasker also travels considerably and hopes to continue this hobby after he retires. He and his wife have two grown daughters who graduated from Park. One is an occupational therapist and the other is a mathematician.

FACULTY

Through the efforts, extra time, and earnestness of Park High's faculty, many students have discovered endless hours of enjoyment in education. For the teacher, teaching sometimes must seem unrewarding, students must seem apathetic, and ideals far from reach: while at times, I'm sure — human nature being what it is — that neither students nor teachers appreciate each other, ALL realize the priceless value of well-educated students and dedicated teachers.

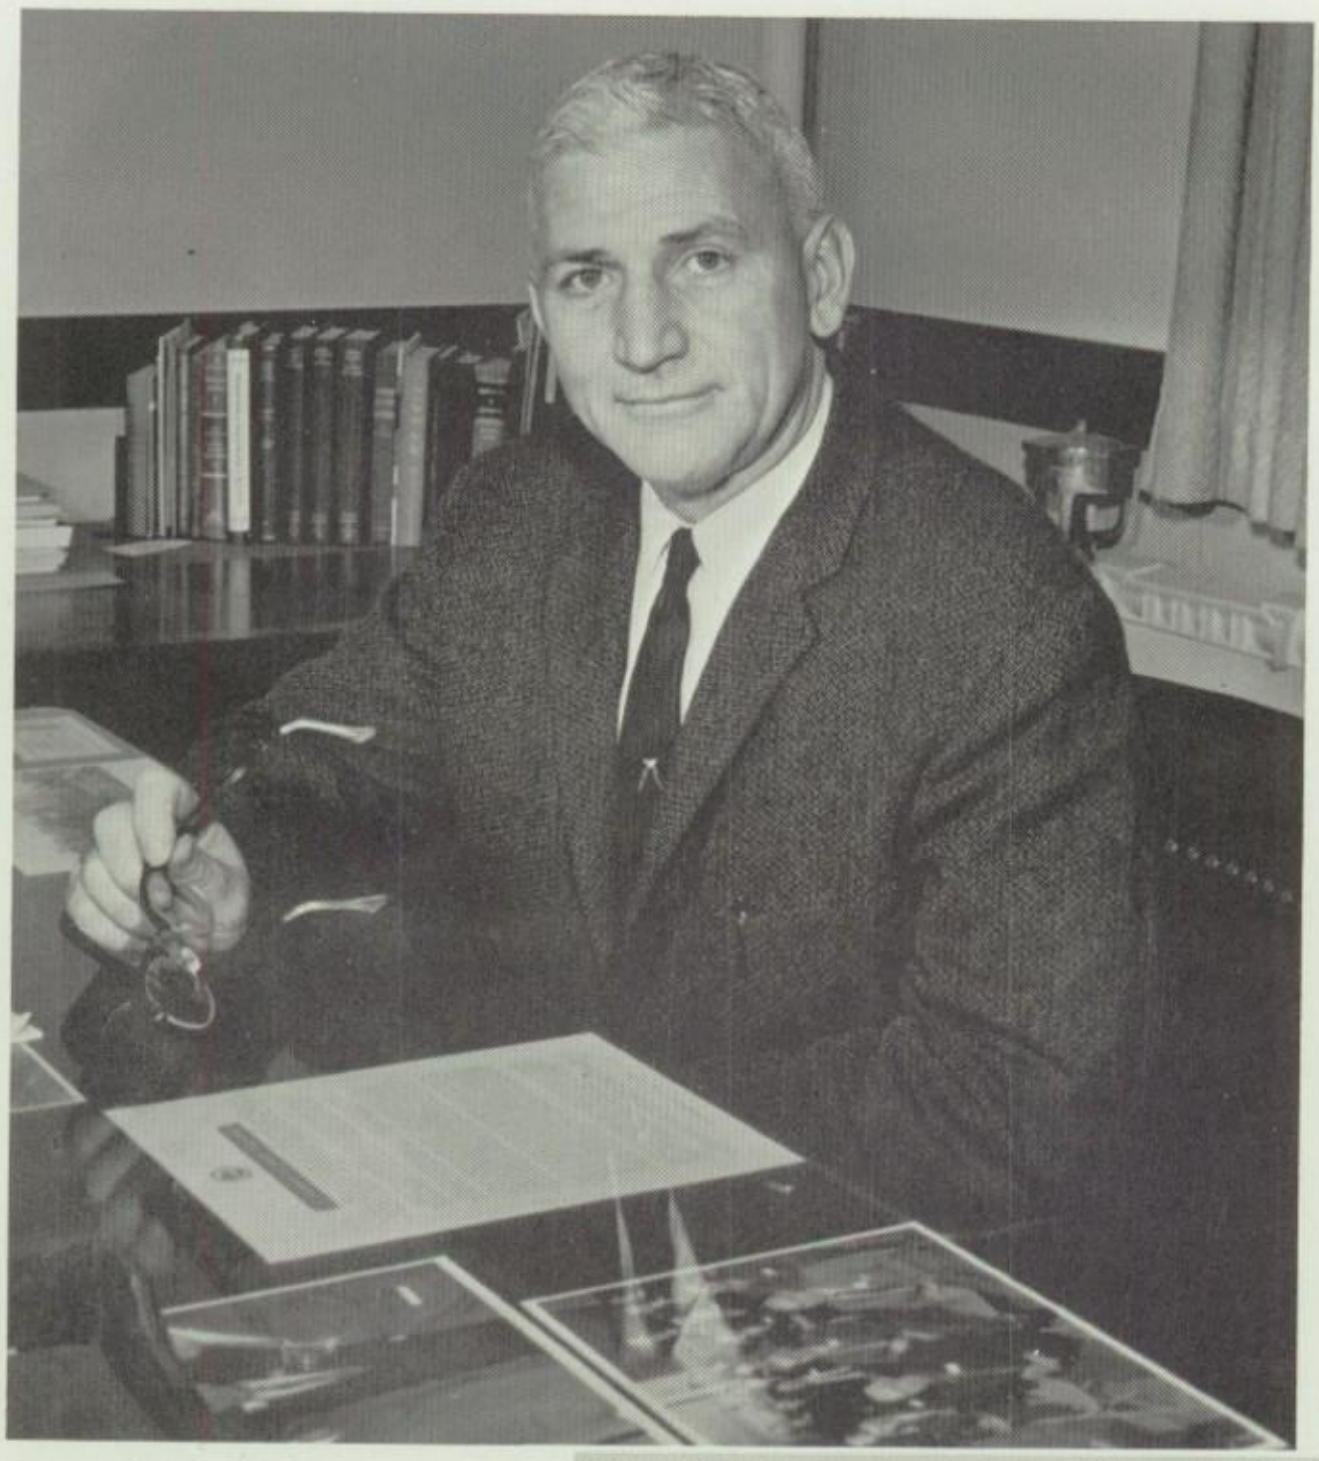
Connie, well, our three



Park Is People

The rewards of diligent effort, and good personal relationships with the people about you are with you constantly. A major contribution of a school program can be your realization of this truism.

As you refer to your Kipi during the coming years you will constantly evalute yourself within the framework of the two factors mentioned. It would be my hope that this evaluation process will prove the lasting value of our 1962 Kipi.

Foreign Friends Frolic

Peter Lechtken shows Lia Veeck how to form a snow ball. Lia, from Novo, Hamburgo, Brazil, doesn't see snow in her country; Peter, a native of Erlangen, Germany, has mastered this winter "art." Lia is staying at the home of Jennifer Jenson; Peter is staying with senior John Frazer.

This year, the Kipi Staff initiated a new policy. We wanted bigger and better pictures with less copy. This, naturally, made the job of Copy Editor less work, but by no means easy.

Our efforts lie in your hands now, and we sincerely hope you enjoy it through the years to come.

Jeanne Weins
Co-Copy Editor

Working on the Kipi staff is excitement, worry, laughter, worry, education, and worry. As a copy writer, most of my worries are words, sentences, and paragraphs, plus who, what, where, why, when, and how. I like to think copy is an important part of the Kipi, that it is important to record the feelings of Park students so that years from now we remember the pride, the gaiety, the sorrow, or the butterflies in our stomachs. I hope, and I know that I echo the thoughts of the rest of the staff when I say I hope we achieved this — and that you are as proud of Kipikawi '62 as we are.

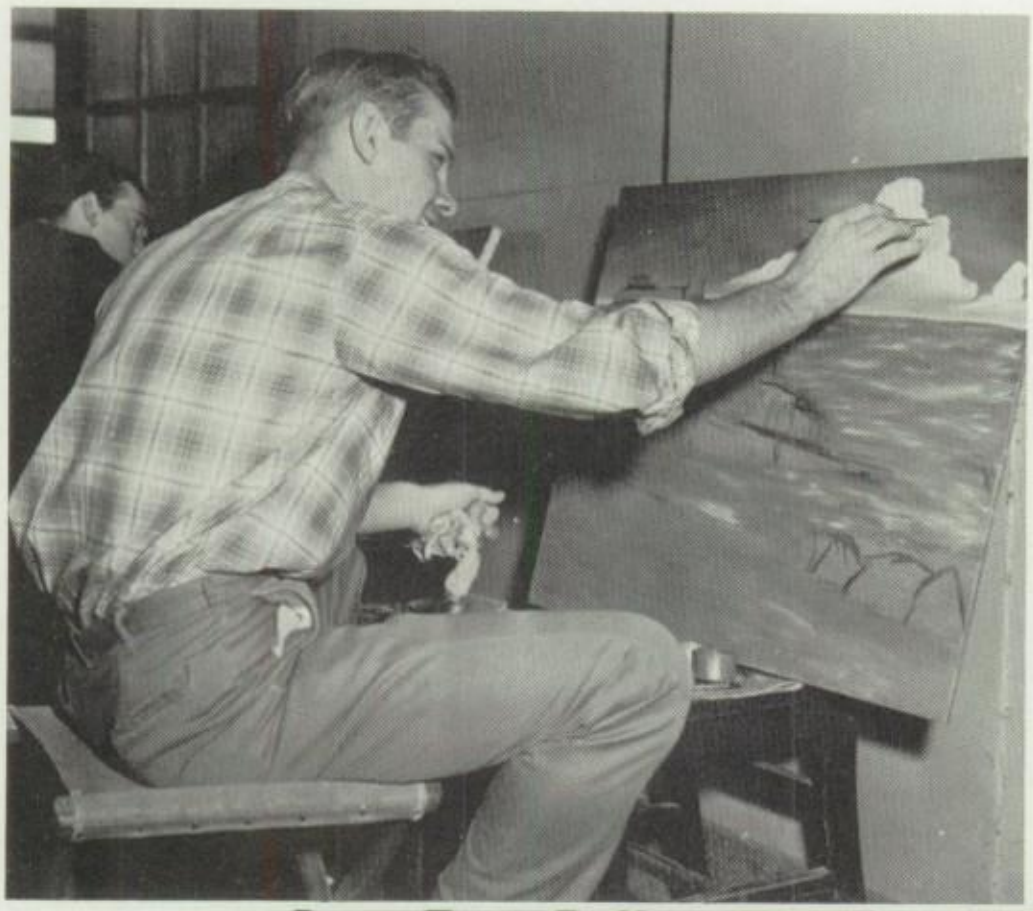
CLASSES

Showing Creativeness

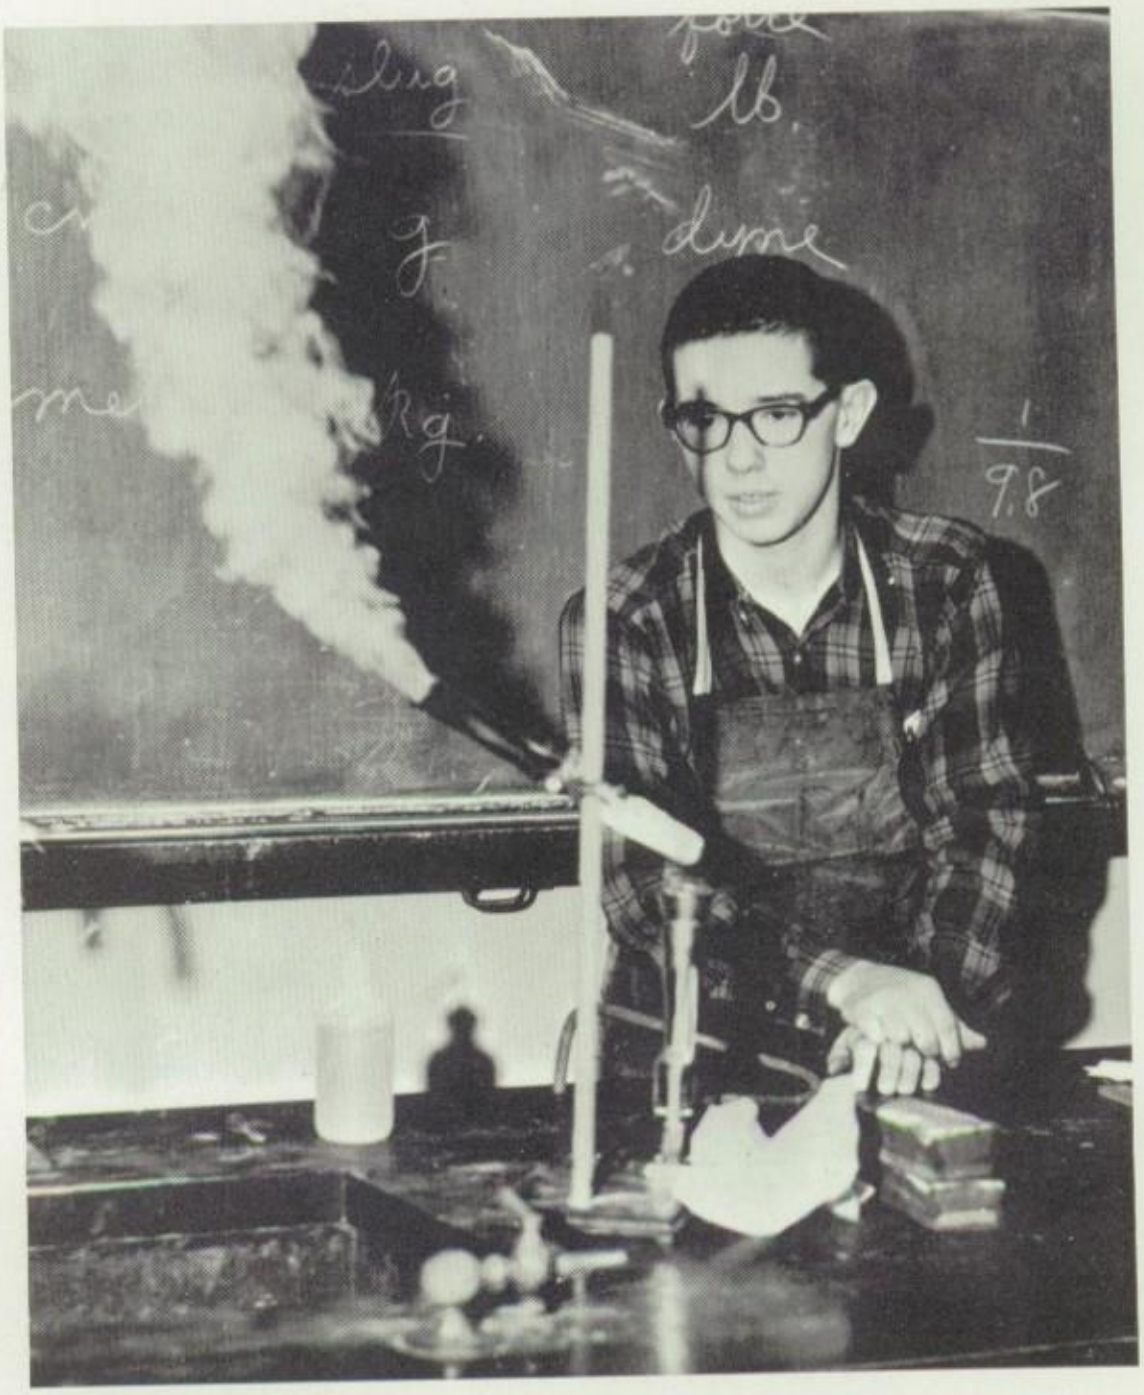


Maybe Rembrandt didn't get his start this way, but there has to be a beginning for everyone, as Phil Gilbertsen learns.

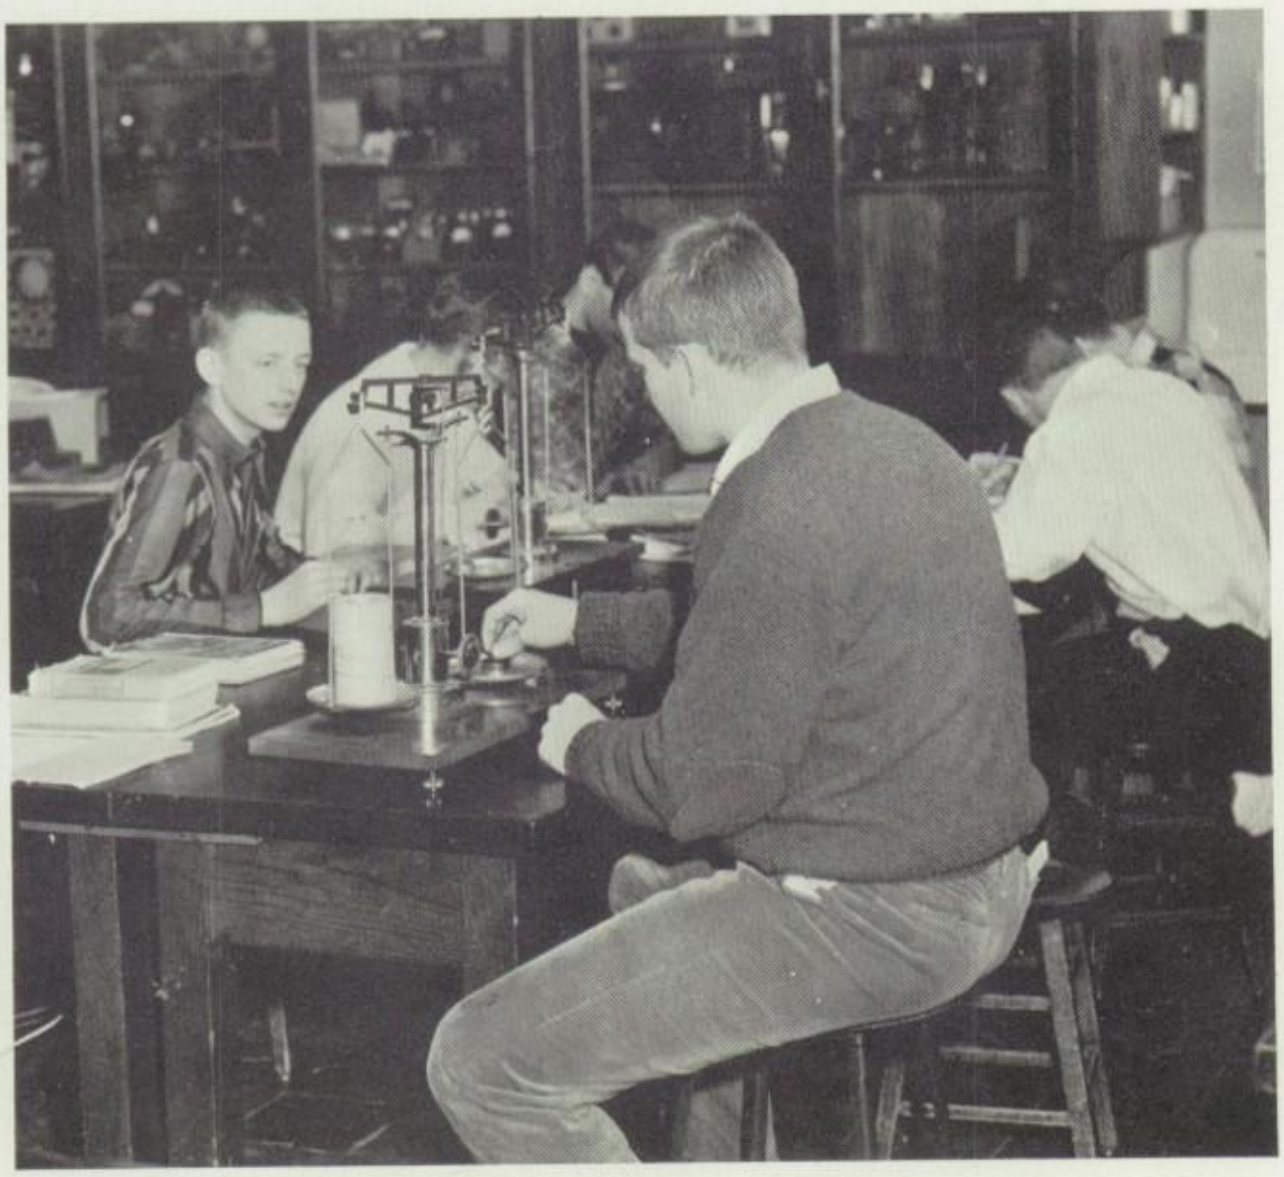
I guess it's not a man's world after all! Mr. Arnold gives Karen Ottosen some drafting pointers, while Terry J. Brown waits his turn.

I hope it's even! Anna Rebman is busy measuring Ruth Ann Knudson's dress.

Preparing the Future



Chemistry proves to be an explosive subject as John Frazer observes his experiment.



And I always thought Physics was a hard subject. It doesn't seem so, as Bill Samalon observes Tom Rasmussen weighing a tin can.

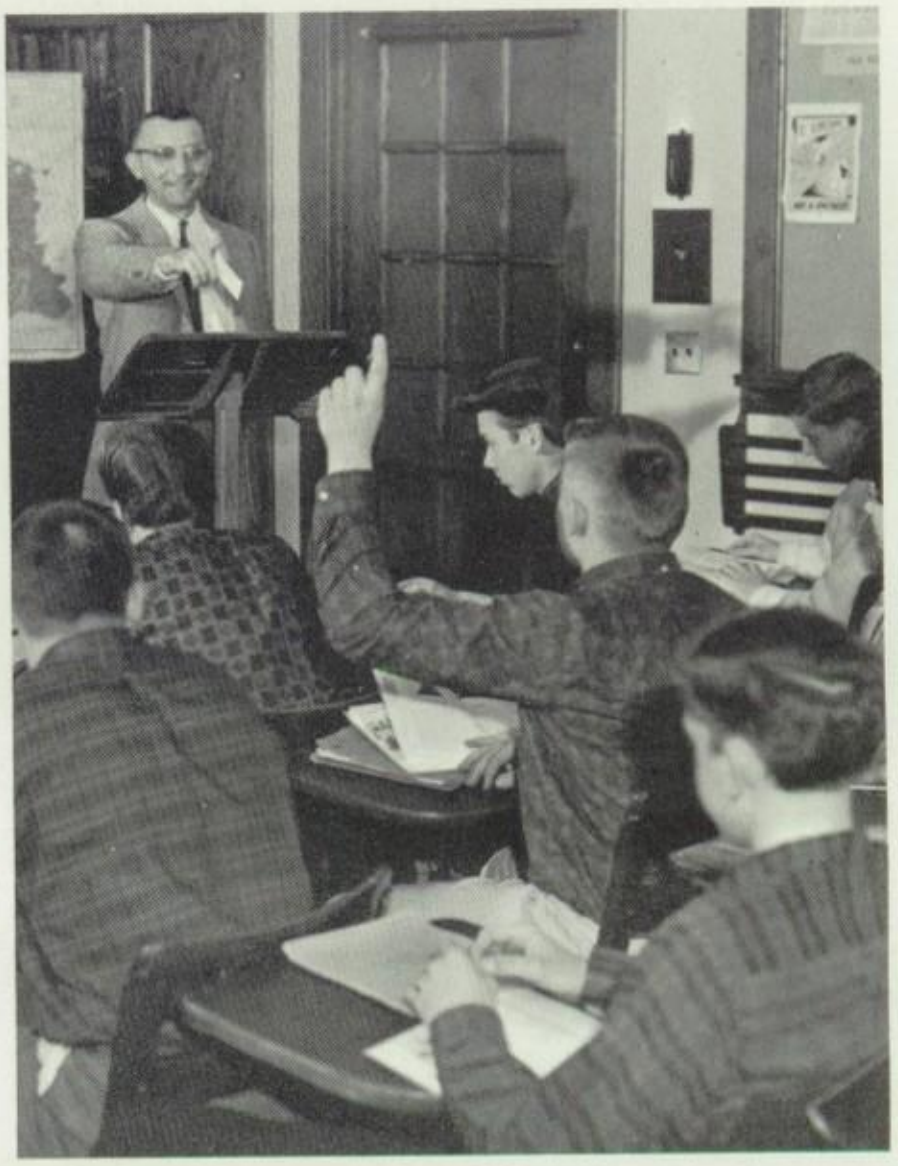
Absorbing Culture

Bad photography? No, indeed not! The sunshine beaming in on the map helps to show the bright and cheery mood which always — well, most always if you exclude test days — prevails in Miss Wernecke's German classes. But there'll be no test today. How can I tell? Why, by Miss Wernecke's earrings, of course — on test day she wears the kind that dangle.

What's this? A Globe that's not a world? Mike von Gonten points out several features of his fine replica of Shakespeare's Globe Theater to Mr. Sorensen. While studying Shakespeare and his play Macbeth, the English classes found it helpful to view this reproduction and get a better idea of how the play was originally performed.

Planning Ahead

It's not polite to point, Mr. Supiano, but we'll excuse you this time if Neil Loomis has the right answer. By the smile on Mr. Supiano's face, it looks as if his seventh period Social Problems class studies some amusing problems as well as serious ones.



Most people seem to think the world situation is no laughing matter — and then there's Mr. Hawker's third hour Economics class, as Dennis Garmer, standing, Katie Greenquist, center, and Troy Brown, foreground, give a panel discussion. This usually serious-minded Econ class must have hit upon an amusing subject as the faces of Janet Schwager, Mr. Hawker (standing), Jill Vander Brug, and Mike Lieske reveal — or could it be they're giving their best smiles to our photographer?

LITERARY

WERE YOU THERE? PARIS 1889

There was the sound of voices, excited voices, in soft modified tones, coming from the theatre, for today was the day all had been waiting for. Suddenly there was silence. All looked up at the stage with intent eyes, for footsteps were heard approaching. The curtain raised, to the excitement of all, with the sound of the cellos starting out, low at first, then singing out with all the joy of the day. From the bottom of the heart, the peace carried all away into a heaven of music. Then, over the sound of the cellos, came loud and clear, the bellowing of the horns. The sounds are rising and joining in now are the mellow clarinets and screeching flutes. All are together now, playing to heart's content. The conductor, alert, is really worked up — playing faster, faster, faster — it is held! His stick, as though it was a magic wand, goes down, and there is dead silence. Were you there? Paris 1889.

WHITE

White is paper — before you write.
White is a twinkling star at night.
White is the seashore sand.
White is the leper's hand.
White is a daisy field.
White is an apple — peeled.
White is the pale moon's glow.
White is the new fallen snow.
White is a shining thought that sings,
Of God and angels and heavenly things.

ANITA HANSEN

MY SECOND COUSIN MILICENT

Did I ever tell you about my second cousin, Milicent? Poor Milicent, she never did get married. Now there's a person you really gotta feel sorry for — everything she tried always seemed to backfire.

Now Milicent, she weren't really so bad looking, if'n she'd just wash her face and comb her hair sometimes. One day Fanny Bracket from down the hill talked Milicent into gettin' one of them home permanents. Even offered to give it to her, she did. Well, I tell you, you ain't never seen such a friz-bomb in yer whole life. It took her a whole year afore her hair grew out enuf so's it didn't spring up 'n down ever time she sneezed. Folks kept a callin' the sharrif out to catch an escaped Zulu warrior.

Milicent was always tryin' to catch herself a man. Thar ain't one man within fifty mile radius that she ain't chased clear as fur as Burble Creek. Yes sir, Weedsville has got the best track team of any around here, I dare say. 'Course it ain't no wunder how fast Milicent could run seen's how her leg's were eight feet long. Thet's another reason why she never got hitched. What man wants to dance with a girl when he has to use a magaphone to whisper in her ear?

Bein' so tall presented a clothes problem. Ever time Milicent wanted a new dress, she had to buy up every bolt of material in the Gen'ral Store. You never seen so many colors and patterns in one dress at once. She looked like a walking patchwork quilt.

THE OCEAN

The ocean is a mammoth figure,
Dwarfing the largest nation.
His huge shoulders are solid,
Swelling continually with new strength.
His eyes sparkle with blue tranquillity
Through his fingers slips sand,
Bleached by his warm breath.
His grasp is over-whelming.
It can crush the largest ship.
In winter his iron arms lash the coast
With melting silver;
They add cool beauty to steaming shore.
The ocean has the power of a million
Men; many fear him,
But he fears those who respect him:
They know how he's conquered.

ALL WAS STILL

An excited tree, its boughs supporting a parade of icicles and covered by a diamond bed of snow, reigned o'er the scene.

A brilliant star swam through a velvet sea past mountainous islands above.

A whimsical breeze flirted with a squirrel's bushy tail and rumpled a blue jay's regal crown.

Then — an ashen hill grumbled and a four-wheeled foreigner shot past in a cloud of smoken fumes.

The interruption vanished.

All was still. . . .

POEM

When the world is cold and bitter,
I, in search of placidness
Walk in silence to the lake shore.
To my secret, somber spot.
There the water gently lapping
Numbs my every train of thought,
Absorbs all my feelings,
Leaves me cleansed upon the rock.
Then the sun whose rays pass through me
Brings warmth and comfort to my soul
And a soft and wondrous feeling
Only God and I can know.

SIRENA TABET

DESPERATION

He was running. The hounds could be heard not far in the distance. It was impossible to make out even the slightest path in the foggy dusk. He stumbled on a protruding root but took no time to nurse his throbbing ankle. He went on running, running. The heavy air seemed to push him back, making each step a struggle. At last he leaned against a gnarled, moss-covered cypress. He was covered with sweat and his body heaved as his breath came in short, forced gasps. His disheveled clothing was caked with wet mud. There was a look of desperation and fear, mingled with disbelief, in his face. Trembling, he clung to the tree as a child clings to his mother when he's in need of protection. His eyes turned upward, peeking through the twisted branches in an effort to find sanctuary with God.

The hounds came nearer. He went on and finally came to an old mission. He ran in, bolted the door, and hung limp with relief. He was safe.

GAIL MAHNKE

O AGED ONE

O aged one, who sits and thinks of days gone by and people dead and says, "I remember when . . ."
But secretly whose mind has said,
"I've lived too long,
I've paid the price for being sound but I remember when . . ."
Yes, you remember when the men were strong and the women meek,
and the river wild, and you tamed it,
And now you sit, slowly rocking,
while water rises and never speak,
nor never hear until someone says,
"Do you remember when . . . ?"

MICHAEL VON GONTEN

I WONDER

It is said, "If I make my bed in hell,
Behold Thou art there."
Sometimes I wonder.
It is said, "Thou makes me to lie
Down in green pastures."
Sometimes I wonder.
It is said, "The Lord is on my side;
I will not fear."
Sometimes I wonder.
In this maze that we call living —
This rat race of getting by —
We fight and struggle,
Unknown, unwanted,
For the things that pass us by.
Yes — sometimes I wonder.

TED ELIAS

JUST NOT WITH IT

Why, why I ask you, do manufacturers make such teensy, weensy, eensy purses? How do they expect a girl to fit all her things into one small purse? A girl simply must have a wallet so loaded with pictures that she can't close it, and at least four or five notes written to her classmates in English class. Once she crams these things into the purse there is barely any room left for essential things like lipstick, p o w d e r, m i r r o r, comb, hanky, personal letters, erasers, pencil, pen, gum, scarf, and a house key.

Let me go into more details about the things I mentioned before. Take a lipstick for instance. A girl simply has to have at least three or four different shades of lipstick in her purse. If she doesn't, well, she's just not with it!

Now, as for personal letters — a girl must have a letter that no one, absolutely no one, should see. What better place is there to put a letter that no one should see than in her purse. If she doesn't, well, she's just not with it.

With all these things to fit in one small purse you would think manufacturers would make bigger purses. Well, they don't. At least not purses that look decent to a teenager. I guess I'll just have to suffer it out another year with a small purse. However, when manufacturers finally manufacture a big purse for the teenager, you can bet your boots that I won't be the first one to buy it! After all, a girl who doesn't have a small purse so crammed with "junk" that she can't close it, just isn't with it.

THE ROAD OF DEATH

The lonely road was long, and as the old man ragged from the troubles of life walked towards the west, the ominous storm clouds gathered in the darkening sky to meet him head on as in a clash with death. The occasional rays of yellowish-gray sunlight that had wedged their way through the black sky were slowly dying away like the life from the old man's feeble body.

It began to rain and blasts of warm wind swirled and gasped in the old man's face, but despite his hardship the old man plodded on over the endless plain that was barren of all its life like the old man's wracked body. It started to rain harder and the summer rain felt like the warm blood of a freshly inflicted wound on his face and the wind wheezed at him like the last gasp of a dying man's breath soon to be his own, but still he made his way over the endless plain into the ever darkening horizon of dying hope, just waiting to be taken up by the eerie hand of death.

SALLY SPURGAT

Early Kipikawis were dedicated as examples of "literary and artistic perfection." In recent years this has not been the case. The prose and poetry written at Park has not had ample recognition. Resuming a past precedent, the Kipikawi Staff is once again publishing a literary section featuring the best of Park's student writing. We earnestly hope that future staffs will continue and maintain this most interesting and important section.

SPORTS

Hardly a day goes by without some oddly-dressed students running around Park, either inside or out, with a rather familiar face, yelling orders. The average student realizes that these invaders are, in actuality, athletes composing the various teams of our school. He then remembers watching these events and thinks of the spirited times he has had seeing them. When you, as a Parkite, remember the sportsmanship of these events, you need no further introduction to the sports of Park High.

Football

Our Panthers, though placing only fourth this year, were a source of satisfaction to Park football fans. The graduating members of the team will always have a good year to remember, and the remaining members will have the chance next season to equal or better their record.

As a source of school pride and pure pleasure — even in the worst weather — the football games, for many, rated tops. In the next few pages is the lowdown on the members, scores, records, and standings of our football squads.

Mr. Krause calls the action at the Park-East game.

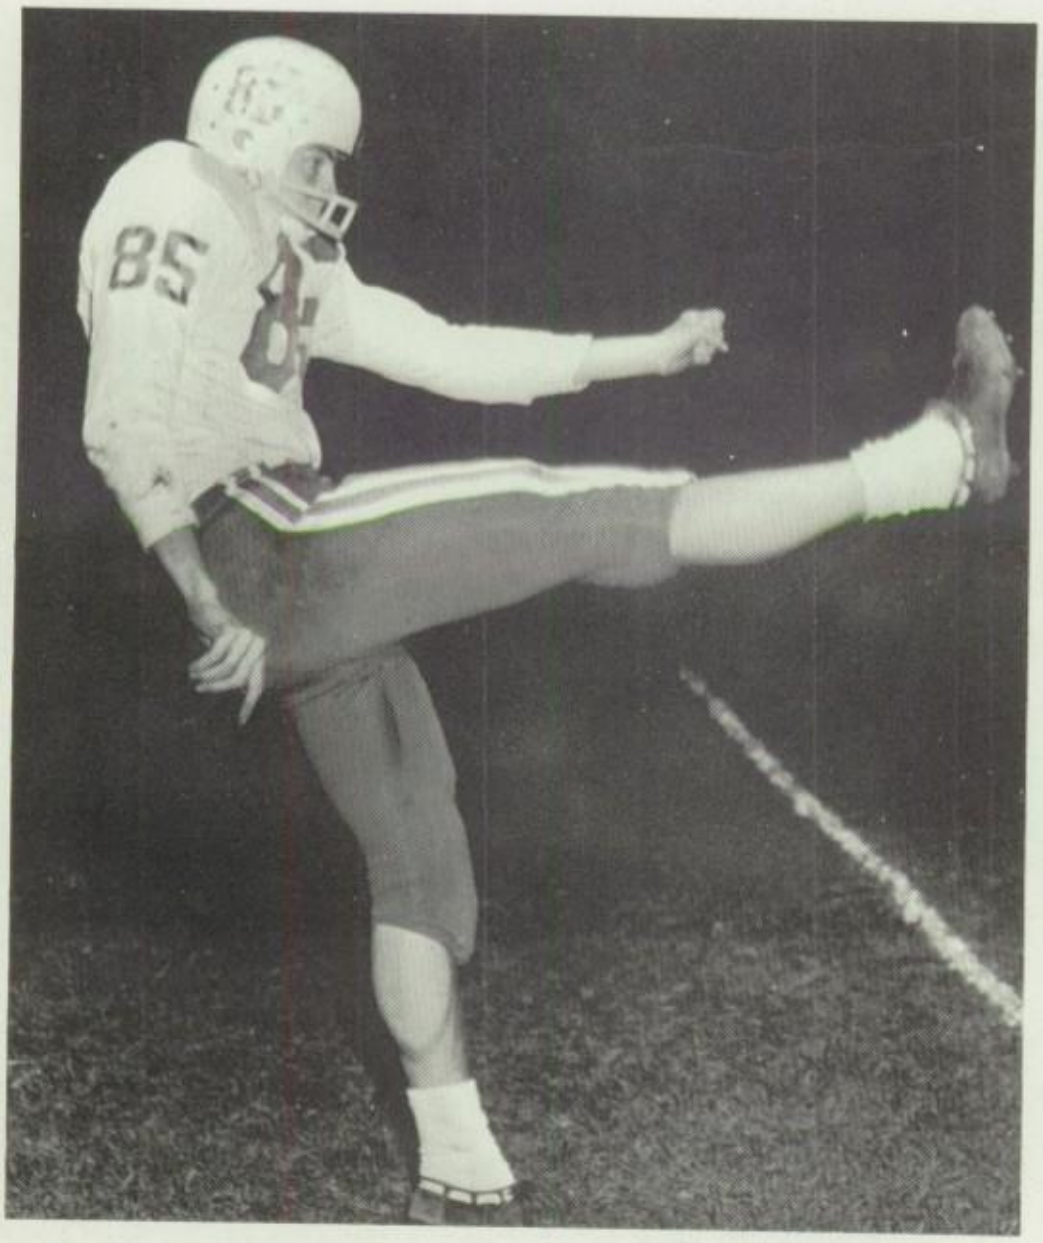
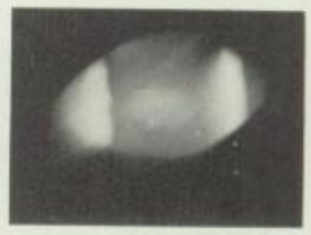
Park fans braved many cold and unfriendly nights to watch their team and cheer them on to victory.



Rick Jorgenson booms another punt into the enemy's backfield.



Until the burning of Miss Fortune, the Panthers were plagued frequently by her evil spells. Often the faithful Park fans watched their favorites start out well, only to lose in the closing minutes. After the gruesome defeat at the Homecoming game, the effects of the bonfire took hold, and the outsized, outweighed line and backfield were able to connect with an Oklahoma defense and a wingman offense to outwit the Lady of Ill Luck. With a tremendous victory over Kenosha, the crowd-pleasing climax of the year was a rout over the cross-town rivals; Horlick's Rebels were beaten the sixth year in a row. Their 4—3—0 season earned the Panthers a fourth place berth in the conference with East.

Coach Donald Schutt was proud of his J-V basketball squad and the improvement that the players made. The juniors' only defeat came at the hands of Salem Central. "Improvement of team members in preparation for the varsity team," said the coach, "was the major goal of the J-V program."

ACTIVITIES

All Around School

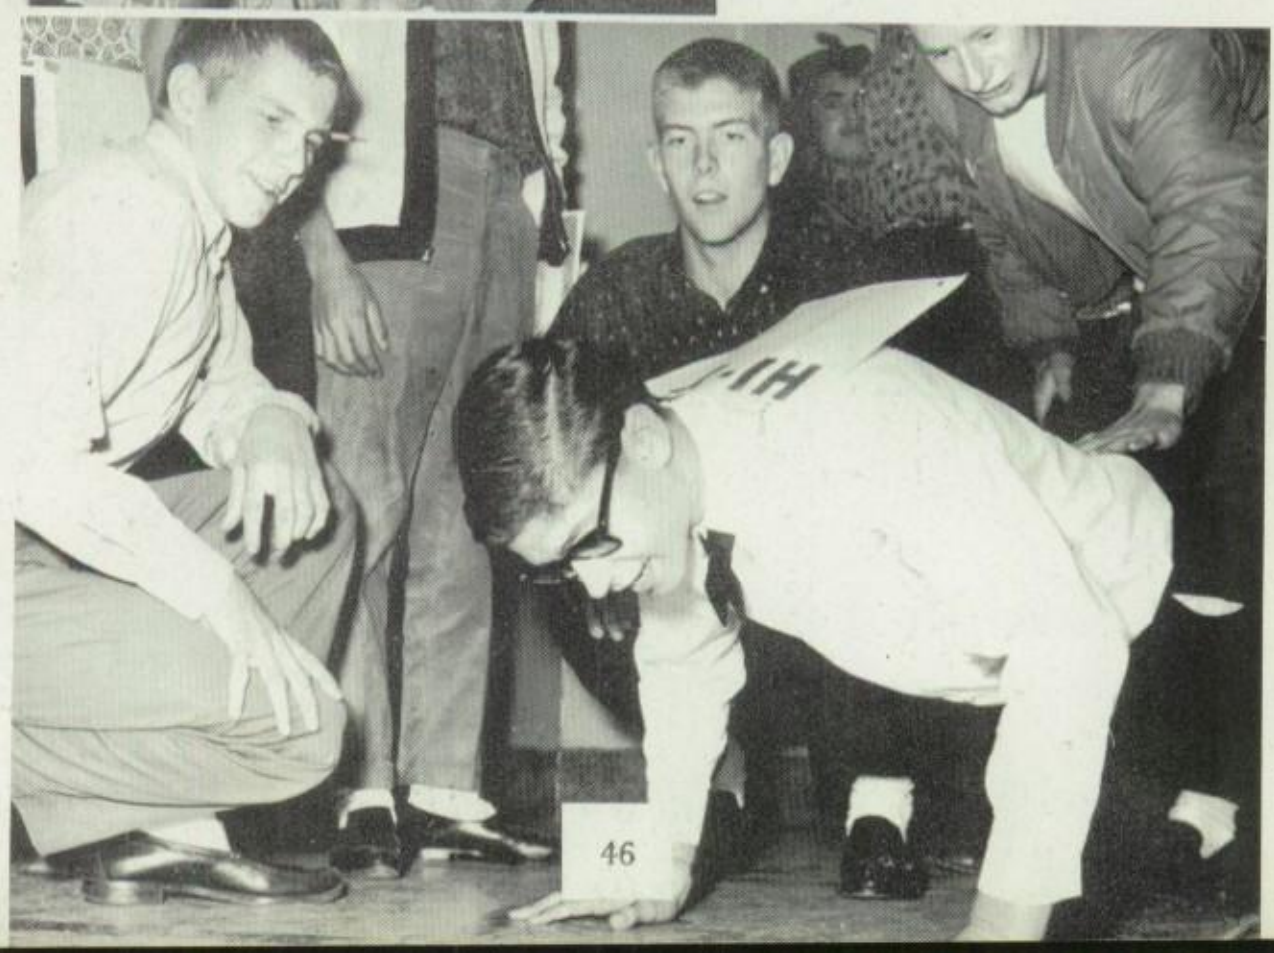
Umph! says Terry Smigun while performing push-ups for his Hi-Y initiation. John Jensen, Rick Jorgenson, and Ron Bahr watch.



"The Untouchables"

1961 Homecoming celebrations were uncapped by a visit from "The Untouchables," Bruce Barnes, Garth Bacon, and Bill Edwards, pictured on the right. They set out to catch Alice Capone, alias Miss Fortune, in a chase which lasted the whole day, until, at the bonfire, Miss Fortune was finally captured and thrown into the flames. But from the results of the Homecoming game, we must surmise that Miss Fortune's friend, Dee Feat, carried on the menacing work.

"Expectin' Victory"

Nero, portrayed by Dave Johnson, attended by Margaret Harris and Kathy Kirkegaard, predicts a fiery fall for Madison East.

Park-Horlick Day

Tenacious Parkites insist "the" annual clash is rightly labeled "Park-Horlick Day," while loyal Rebels insist on Horlick-Park Day"; but justice prevades the spirited event by alternating the title each year.

As in years before, Park students were aroused by the assembly that began to stir the spirit, the mums that accented the spirit, the cheers of the Boosters that held the spirit at a high pitch, the marching band that sounded the spirit — to carry our Panthers over the Rebels, and uphold our time-honored tradition. We trounced Horlick!

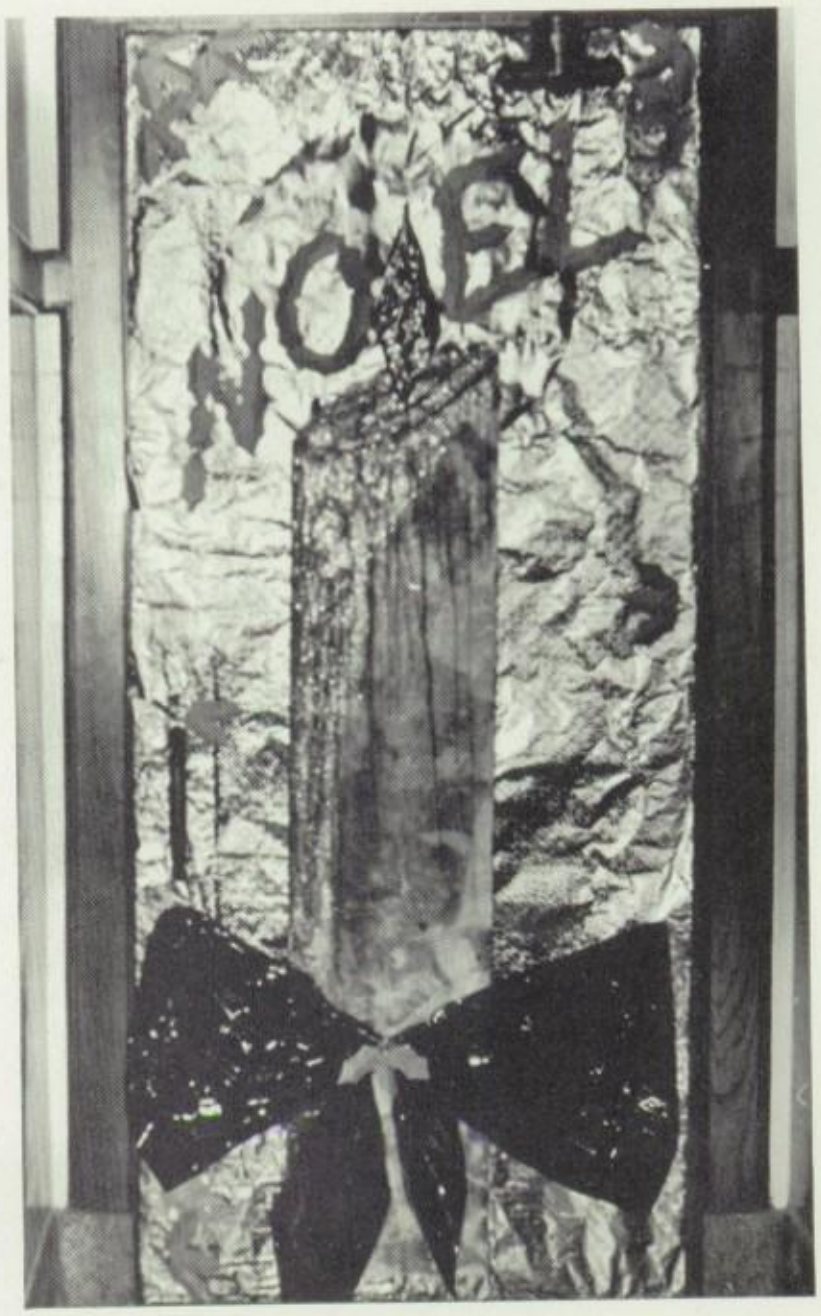
Have a Heart and Do Your Part

Results of the AFS "Have a Heart and Do Your Part" campaign were happily shown to president Erika Keitel by Chairman Elaine Petersen. Its success insures Park of having a second exchange student next year.

Open House

Teachers and parents got to know each other at Open House. Student guides, like Linda Rosensweig and Ruth Ann Van Dyke, helped get the right parent to the right teacher in the right room.

'Tis the Season To Be Jolly



Goodfeller baskets, carols at the Sunday music concert, the Wichaka faculty tea and gay door decorations all mean Christmas at Park. The decorated door, right, conveys some of our holiday spirit.

Assemblies

Everyone remembers filing into the gym for assemblies ranging from light comedy to serious drama. Professional entertainers are brought in occasionally, but there are also a few traditional assemblies here at Park. The A.F.S. assembly is one. At this assembly, foreign exchange students tell something about their respective countries. The humorous antics of Hi-Y members constitute another traditional assembly.

At the A.F.S. assembly, Jennifer Jensen relates some experiences she had while in Germany, as Park's own exchange student. Mary Lee Olsen, who was in charge of this year's assembly, listens intently.

No, this isn't a game of statue maker! Drama students from the University of Wisconsin are presenting scenes from the Broadway musicals "Kiss Me Kate" and "West Side Story."

Dan Desmond frisks Jim Hansen while Eric Jensen, Zolton Nemeth, and Dave Servis wait their turn. Joe Townsley is either checking for dishpan hands or class rings. This scene from the Hi-Y assembly is a take off on the channels high school students have to go through to get into the Friday night dances at the YMCA.

La Varietee

To raise funds, the dramatic's club sponsored "La Varietee," a French night club theme. The floor show consisted of several acts, such as the Teen Tones, Mary Jo Snyder, Bonnie Dibble, and Marylu Dixon, pictured at the right, and Gail Farrell and Kathy Kieffer doing a beatnik pantomime. Food was served in the French atmosphere while records were played in the background.

Mardi Gras

Park's clubs offer a wide variety of activities suiting almost every individual's interests. Just what areas do these clubs envelop?

Through Student Council and Senior Council, students help plan school supported activities and become familiar with government and parliamentary procedure.

Wichaka, Hi-Y, and A.F.S. plan service projects, as well as many of Park's social events.

Language, science, and math clubs offer an extended education outside of the classroom on an informal basis.

Music and artistic talents are encouraged by membership in Band, Orchestra, A Cappella, Choristers, or Art Club.

Mechanical skills are provided for Park by Wrong Font and the Sound and Lighting committees.

Pep, an important ingredient at Park, is encouraged through Pep Club, Lettermen's Club. E.O.T.O.H.T.M. P.B.C., B.B.W.S.O.G.R. and S.L.O.B.S. The bowling teams and G.A.A. thrive on athletic interests.

An honor society. Quill & Scroll, draws writers and others having journalistic abilities from the BEACON and KIPIKAWI staffs.

For every interest and talent at Park, a club exists. For successful membership, only genuine interest and the desire to work are required. The rewards? Endless.

Kipikawi

This year, the KIPIKAWI staff has sought to present in pictures and story a book worthy of being the 50th edition KIPIKAWI. We are proud of the tradition KIPIKAWI has established.

We extend special thanks to those who helped us during the past year: Mr. Lionel Lewis of Charles' Studio, Mr. Bruce Parsons of the American Yearbook Company, Mr. Raymond Wick of Wick's Camera Shop, Mr. Francis Nemacheck, who was responsible for the business end of KIPIKAWI, and all those, teachers and students, here at Park who aided us in any way they could. A service group affiliated with YWCA, Wichaka's gals began the fall semester with the annual style show and introduced a new project: entertaining the Theresa-Elisabeth residents each month. The outstanding activities included a makeup demonstration and a talk on Christmas customs. Teachers (or grades?) were brightened at the first semester's memorable Teacher Polishing Tea. Second semester highlights included the solemn Lenten breakfast and the come-as-you-are surprise breakfast.

Hi-Y

Hi-Y spells YMCA, service, sports nights, and fun, fun, fun. Sophomores, wearing bermudas, white T-shirts and neckties executed pushups upon demand of old members, and cleaned the schoolgrounds for initiation. During the combined sports nights and meeting on Tuesday nights, the boys planned the distribution of Goodfeller baskets at Christmas and the annual Hi-Y pep assembly.

SENIORS

To All Seniors —

You are nearing the end of Kipikawi, just as you are nearing the end of the year. I hope this year's Kipi is something special . . . after all, this entire year has been special — Senior year and graduation. To many of us, this has been the goal since those early days of kindergarten and sand castles. Our senior activities — graduation, prom, banquet and mixer will be remembered for a long time. This is the purpose of Kipi, and especially the important senior section which will serve as a valuable reference later on. The Kipi you hold represents many hours of long, often discouraging, but many times rewarding work. It is the finished product of hundreds of typewritten pages of copy, layouts of pictures, and many phone calls. These phone calls lie mostly in this section — those calls that I and my assistant made all summer for appointments. I must say that I learned one thing — I think Park holds the record for late-sleeping seniors!

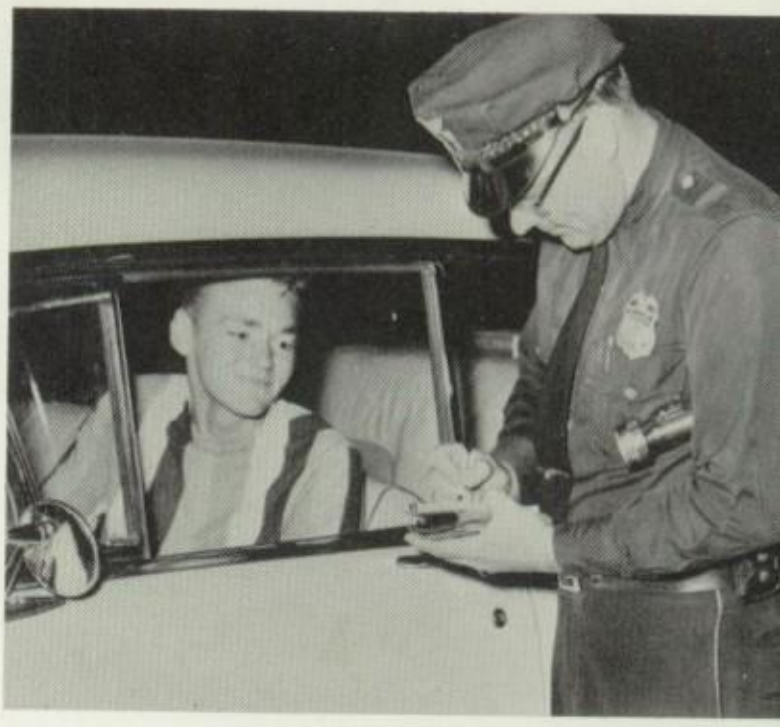
M. Wilan, D. Phillips, J. Walker, H. Glines.



John Miller and Park's popular policeman, George.

As We See . . .

Jeanie Weins, Mary Jane Wilan, Ned Nemacheck, and Dick Phillips test snow.

Our Seniors

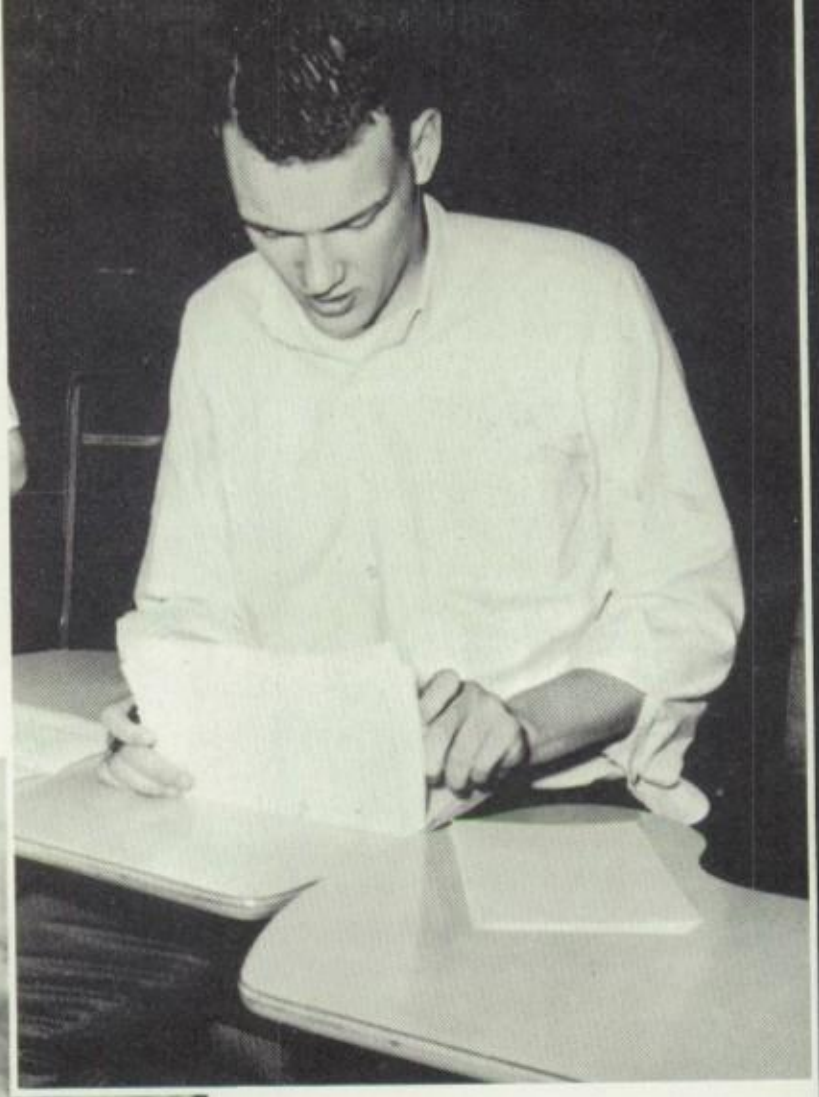
Seniors, by the law of the upper classman, have many privileges. Among them are the right to sell ice cream at noon, the tradition of holding the most club offices, the duty of sitting on the gym floor at assemblies, and the taking of frightening college boards, and, of course, the right to win the class cheers. Also included is the right to be silly, as shown by these senior cut ups.

RIGHT: H. Glines tests the faithfulness of "Old Faceful."

Remember . . .

The Subjects?



The Work?

Spring?

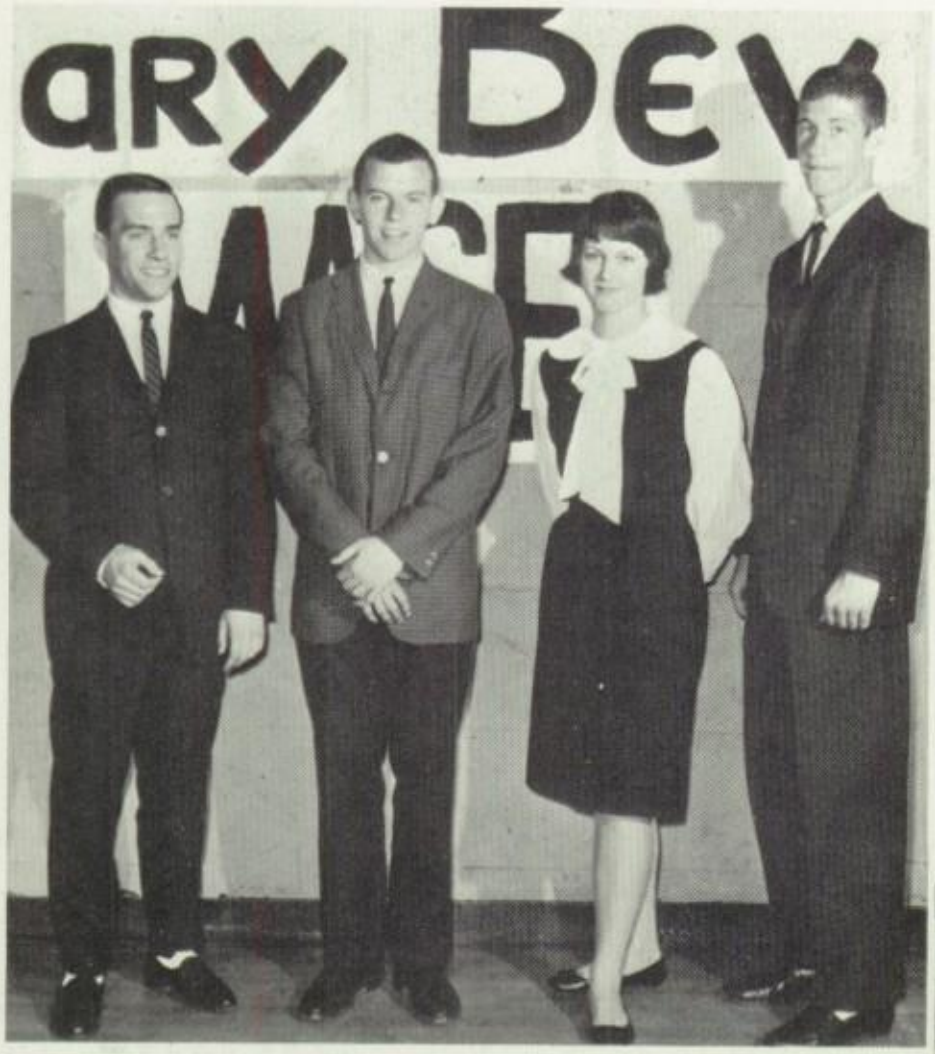
The Relaxation?

When is KIPI TIME? KIPI time is seventh hour on Monday and Wednesday. After roll call, KIPI editors run out of 313 on "business." The lucky ones who don't have a deadline coming up study chemistry or English. The wise ones work ahead on their layouts, and my job starts with the next group — those who let their layouts go until the last minute. Then KIPI time for me is during study hall, after school and in between times! KIPI time is often late at night; working with pictures, copy and white space while trying to make a layout that is pleasing to the eye. Then when I think I've finally got it, Mr. Zehren tears it apart and I start all over again, arranging, rearranging and rearranging . . .

Marilyn Stabenau
Layout Editor

SUPPLEMENT

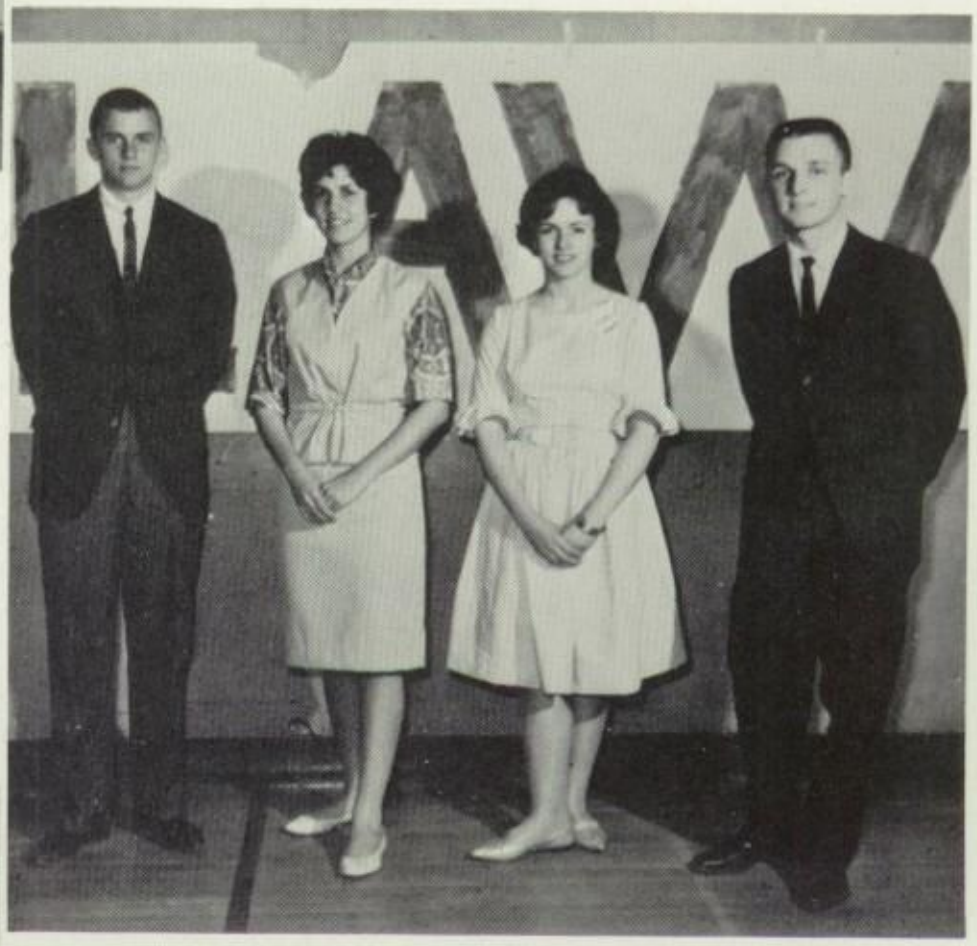
Elections



Park's annual Student Council election featured three very active parties in 1961: MACE, LAWN and SPARK. Tremendous campaign poster parties and rallies promoted the various candidates. After a week of hard and vigorous campaigning, the student body chose Bob Christensen for president, Dick Bertlesen for vice president, Nancy Wakefield for secretary, and Kent Cushenberry for treasurer.

"Mace"

Nominees of the MACE party were: B. Blaesing, G. Brinen, B. Temple, B. Bengston.



"Lawn"

Candidates of the LAWN party were: J. Reiher, L. Rosenzweig, R. Van Dyke, B. Christensen.

"Spark"

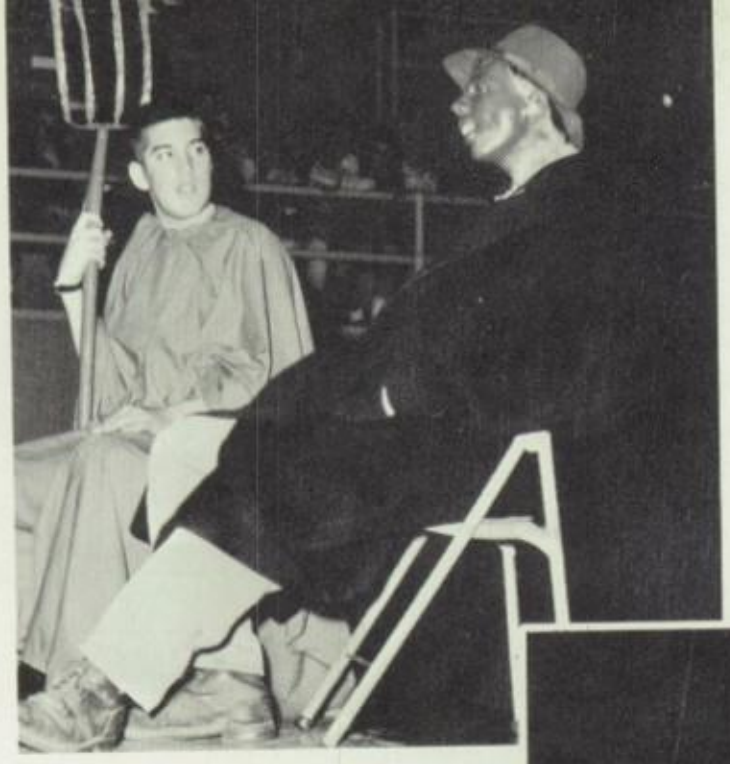
SPARK party aspirants were: J. Howell, D. Bertlesen, N. Wakefield, K. Cushenberry.

"Antigone", an ancient Greek tragedy, was successfully presented during Park's 1960-61 year. Antigone, sister of two brothers who battle and kill each other, defies a regal edict to leave her brother unburied, and heaps dirt upon his corpse. As punishment, she is buried alive. Above, Linda Purvis, as Antigone, is consoled by Kay Phillips, kneeling, Barb Szalay, back right, and Loretta Goat, back left.

The 1961 "Bartlett Affair" closes with Karen Gunderson, Jim Holden, Heather Glines, and Bill Roesler saying their farewells.

"Quite

Ben Sidran seems to have complete control of the situation, at least temporarily.



Speaking of the devil, Jeff Krug seems to be having a heart to heart talk with Amos Crow, played by Jim Ertl.

It seems like the "No Smoking on Campus" rule was relaxed a little so Tom Malmstadt could really enjoy his fishing.

Joe Wilfer looks on while director Jeff Fiala and choreographer Janie Duke discuss some problems which confronted them during the rehearsal.

...an Affair"

Country gal Janie Duke enjoys "Doing What Comes Naturally."

Most boys get a "kick' out of the senior girls' kickline. This year proved no exception to the rule.

Willie Alexander, our Badger Boys' State Governor, and Bill Roeseler, the "honor man" of our school, proudly accepted their awards ranging from athletics to German.

Dick Berthelsen, Nancy Wakefield, John Howell, George Talsma, and Bill Bengston represented us at Badger State.

Banquets and . . .

CENTER: Queen Judy Kayon and King Chris Ramig lead their court past the gods at the Latin Banquet.

Latin Clubs' Banquet, "Feast of the Gods" climaxed their year. In this rite, what is ordinary food becomes godly fare from Mount Olympus.

A satirical skit, Elsie Writes a Story, involving a typical cub reproter, was given at Beacon's first Banquet. Guest speaker was Mr. Serge Logan of The Racine Journal-Times.

Second and third year French clubs treated first year students to a carnival. Bingo and a dance game invented by French Club, called Musical Men, helped liven the yearly event.

Feasting Pharoahs start off Graduation Week with a Senior Banquet.

Senior Cleopatras had one last chance to sing the school song.

A Feast

"Feast of the Pharoahs," the Senior Banquet, was pleasantly punctuated by a class prophesy, a class will, and a Senior skit. The soon-to-be graduates' race of Hectic Prom Preparation was interrupted by these enjoyable hours.

T. Malmstadt in his mummy "glad-rags."

Retiring Vice-Principal, Mr. Close, unveiled a sketch of himself by Mr. X., a noted senior artist.

"Moonlight and Magnolias" invade the boys' gym as Prom-goers dream to music by Wes Adrian.

Two Dreams . . .

RIGHT: Climaxing a week of senior festivities, the procession of graduating seniors is led by Don Kurten, class treasurer, and Cheryl Davis, class vice-president.

LEFT: Jeff Clark and Sue Theirbah, King and Queen of Park's senior prom, hurry to take "La Grande Tour" offered at the Post Prom at Memorial Hall.

Senior Prom and Graduation.

Who Says Girls Are Sissies?

Never tangle with Margaret Harris. Look at that muscle-sprung volleyball!

These two senior girls seem to know what to do with this volleyball.

Sandy Schoenike demonstrates her golf techniques as well as her knees.

Ask any girl what she hates most about gym class and she will answer, "The baggy blue gymsuits." This is the least of our two physical ed teacher's worries, though; they are more concerned with skills, sportsmanship, poise, and physical fitness for every girl at Park.

SUPPLEMENT

SPRING PLAY

The "Savages": Jim Tiles, Mary Jensen, Scott McIntosh, and Jennifer Jensen.

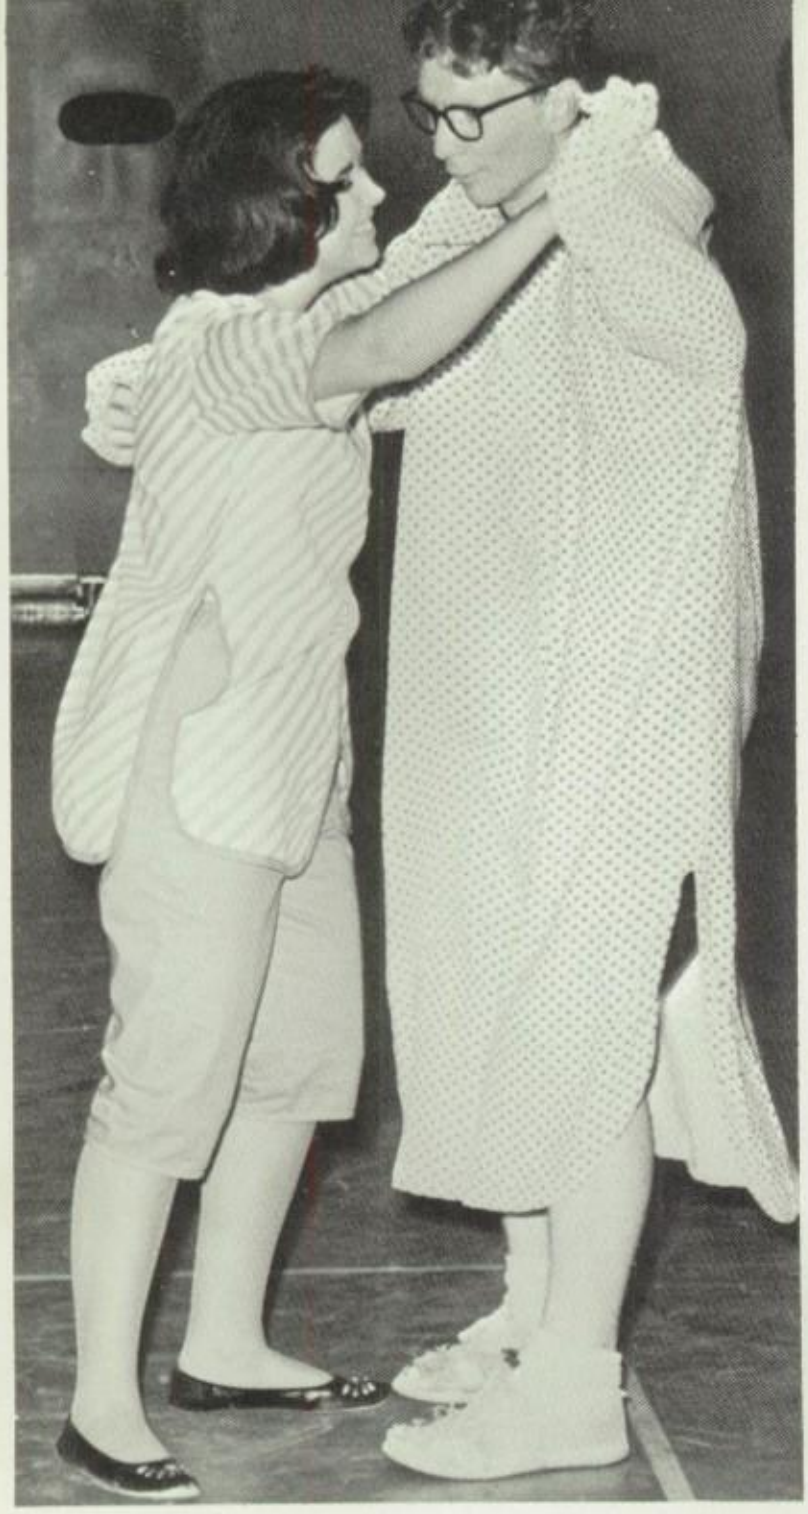
"THE CURIOUS SAVAGE"

John Patrick's comedy, The Curious Savage, was presented by Park's Dramatic Department, directed by Donald Mittag, at the new Starbuck auditorium. Wealthy Mrs. Savage, played by Jennifer Jensen, attempts to keep her money from her avaricious children, Jim Tiles, Scott McIntosh, and Mary Jensen, who commits her to an institution for believing that the fulfillment of dreams is just as important as the acquisition of wealth.

Cheryl Anastasio inspects Mary Jensen's make-up, while Ann Greenquist gives "Samuel" a "different" hair style.

TALENT SHOW: DREAM



Dressed appropriately, Tim Yorgan dances Sue Hammes in "Dream Variety" style about the gym floor.

Orchesis entertained to the tune of "Little Brown Jug," while, below, Jean Aiello tells her "Daddy" her version of Little Red Riding Hood.

VARIETY

SENIOR BANQUET

Such service! Attentive underclassmen "banquet" Seniors Ina Reiser and Dick Nagy at "Camelot" Hall.

AND SENIOR MIXER

Remember this part of the Senior Skit? Dick Berthelsen in the garbage can and John Howell indoctrinating a reluctant? Dan Desmond?

They forgot their dignity! Entirely. They played kindergarten games. Really! They even played "Red Rover." Where? At the Seniors' "Caveman Capers."

Jean Weins brought her hungry Teddy Bear, but kept him on a milk diet. Mary Jane Wilan, at her right, wasn't fooled a bit, but Kenneth Jensen . . .

PROM

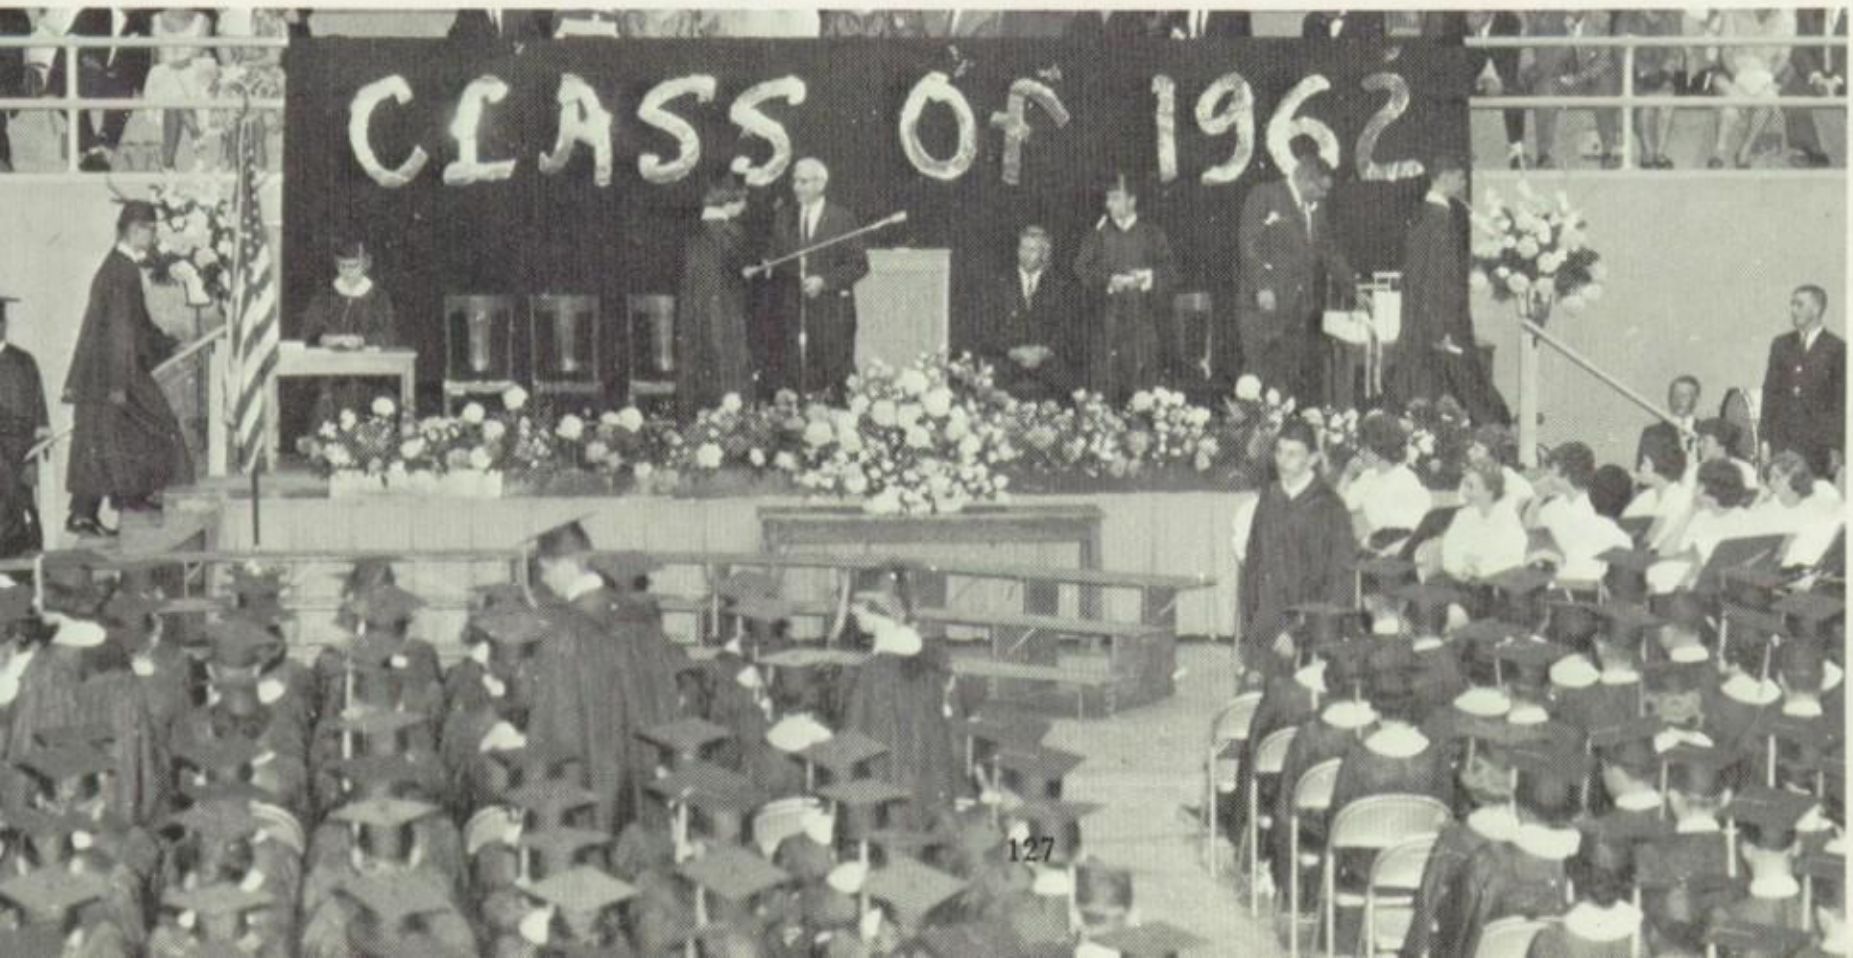
They decorated the gym, and lettered the theme as "Cynosure," center of interest — The seniors, at their 1962 Prom.

Ron Mazmanian and Heather Glines, shown below, reigned as King and Queen.

Then the fun, and the seniors proceeded to Memorial Hall's, "Remembered Moments" opposite top, for their 1962 Post Prom celebration.

GRADUATION

A happy occasion, yet a sad one; a short ceremony, yet a long preparation; a leaving, yet a beginning; senior graduation.



1962 CLASS ELECTIONS

Three parties entered competition in the 1962 class elections. Winners were: President, John Lehman of the ARK party; Vice-President, Steve Rassmussen; Treasurer, John Clark, and Secretary, Sue Arzikovic; all of the EO party.

Noteworthy, was the unprecedented election of John Clark, a sophomore, to the office of treasurer.

ARK

Nominees were, from left to right, Wayne Williams, Barb Levandowski, Paul Krause, and John Lehman.

KEY

Selected Rick Taube, Fay Czarnowski, Bob Orthey, and Steve Danford (not pictured), as their candidates.
